Prior to 1790, the ground now covered by magnificent public and private buildings; the homes of wealth, luxury and refinement; and known as the City of Washington, was simply a part of a Maryland plantation, and not wholly cultivated. In 1790, Congress at the solicitation of President Washington passed an act creating the District of Columbia, a territory embracing 100 square miles, and situated on both banks of the Potomac, occupying parts of Maryland and Virginia.
